What kind of COVID-19 Swab will be used?

HCCH uses the Nasal Swab for PCR testing. The Nasal swab is CDC approved for COVID-19 testing. PCR testing is the gold standard when it comes to COVID-19 testing. It has been proven to be an effective, efficient, and timely method of COVID-19 testing. The entire process can be completed with the sample remaining in a single test tube. This lessens the possibility of contamination and makes for more reliable results.

What should I expect when receiving a COVID-19 test?

The COVID-19 test is obtained by inserting a cotton swab deep inside the individual's nose. The goal is to get a decent sample of sputum-the goo that we typically associate with coughing, sneezing, or spitting.

How long will it take to receive my test results?

Test results are currently getting back within 48-96 hours. Test result return times depends on how many tests our labs are running that day so these times could be quicker or longer depending on the day.
